Nationalists Fear Geneva Conference

"Sellout" Of Formosa Expressed; U.S. Said "Playing With Fire"

TAIPEI, Formosa, July 31 (AP)—Sentiment against the Geneva talks between the United States and Red China opening tomorrow rose steadily today on this Nationalist stronghold island.

Top Nationalist officials were obviously worried but withheld comment. The press and various organizations and individuals, however, were outspoken in expressing fears there might be a "sellout" at Geneva.

Hope For Settlement

(The official Chinese Communist newspaper, People's Daily, said it hoped the Formosa question "and other disputed issues between China and the United States will be gradually settled" by negotiation.

Peiping radio broadcast the article. As heard in Tokyo, People's Daily said the meeting at the ambassadorial level "should propose talks on a higher level between the two countries."

The fear of a "sellout" of the Nationalists was expressed by Hsiang Kuo-fu, a leader of the Democratic Socialist party. He was quoted in the Taipei press as urging Nationalist Chinese to be prepared to fight to the last.

The Taiwan (Formosa) Provincial Farmers' Assn. sent President Eisenhower a message saying the Geneva talks violated the spirit of the U. S.-Nationalist mutual security pact and would damage friendship between the two countries. The association says it represents four million farmers on Formosa.

"Playing With Fire"

Lin Ting-li, deputy speaker of Formosa's provincial assembly, was quoted in the press as saying the United States was playing with fire in agreeing to negotiate with Red China.

The United States has said the primary aim of the talks is to obtain release of Americans held in Red China. But it also has decided to sound out Red China on a cease-fire and has not ruled out the possibility of higher-level talks later designed to ease tension.

Premier Chou En-lai in a week-end speech in Peiping vetoed any talk on a cease-fire. He said the Geneva meeting could lay the groundwork for further negotiations to relax tension in the Formosa area.

Concern Seen In Auto Sales

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee said today it was "greatly concerned" over the "record number" of unsold automobiles and high dealer mortality in the industry.

The subcommittee, which is studying auto marketing practices, said it "intends to watch the automobile market situation closely in the critical months ahead during the model changeover period."

The interim report noted that so far this year a record number of cars has been sold.

But it said also that "a record number of unsold new models are presently on the market due to record levels of production."

"Previous to 1955 the record number of new car stocks (infield and in transit) was reached May 1, 1954, at which time 607,275 unsold new cars were reported by the Automotive News," the subcommittee said.

"As of May 1, 1955, the same source reports 757,856 unsold cars. As of June 1, 1955, there were 848,498. July 1 the number stood at 820,291."

Record Sales Noted

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—U. S. Vitamin Corp. reported today for six months ended May 31 record high sales of $5,093,100 compared with $4,420,200 in the like period in 1954 and a net profit of $461,200 against $238,625 in the 1954 period. Per share earnings this year were 49 cents against 31 cents last year.

Benefits Hassle Delays Congress

Public Housing Also Deadlocked

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A Senate-House hassle over congressional fringe benefits and a deadlock on public housing raised a question today as to just when Congress will adjourn for the year.

Leaders are aiming now for a final gavel fall sometime tomorrow night, but the session may drag on for another two or three days.

The lawmakers already have passed the July 31 adjournment deadline suggested, but not required, by the 1946 Reorganization act.

House leaders were threatening to keep Congress in session indefinitely, if necessary, to break down what they call "an outrageous" position taken by the Senate over Capitol Hill pay and other benefits.

Quarrel Develops

The quarrel developed over what is sometimes jestingly referred to as the "boodle bill," appropriating funds for legislative expenses. The measure, designed to finance Congress through the fiscal year ending next June 30, is the only appropriation bill pending. All the others, amounting to 52 billion dollars, have gone to the White House.

The Senate added to the bill extra postage and stationery allowances for its members, expense-paid trips home for senatorial employees and pay raises for some of its hired help.

The House had neglected to provide these "fringe benefits" for itself in passing the bill originally. It decided to add them in a Senate-House conference, on the theory the Senate wouldn't object to the traditional procedure of each branch's allowing for its own housekeeping needs without interference from the other.

As passed by the House, the bill appropriated about 60 million dollars. The Senate added nearly 33 million more.

The stalemate over the congressional appropriation may last longer than the housing deadlock.

Conferees on an omnibus housing bill were expected to reach agreement tomorrow after going through their annual battle over how many new public housing units should be approved.

Strict Limitations

The outlook was that the final compromise would authorize 35,000 units for each of the next two years — as President Eisenhower requested — with strict limitations on occupancy.

The Senate has voted for 135,000 units in each of the next four years; the House, mainly at Republican insistence, has voted for none. Senators are holding out for a minimum of 50,000 for one year as a compromise; representatives insist on an annual top of 35,000.

Conferees argued until last midnight but failed to break the deadlock. They'll try again tomorrow. Measures still on tap include:

A two billion dollar boost in the government's authority to make loans for the farm price support program. This has cleared the Senate.

A Senate-passed bill extending the small business administration.

A Senate-passed bill providing free polio vaccine for most minors. The House wants to limit free distribution to needy children.

Ike, Mamie Return

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower returned to the White House today after spending the weekend at their farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

They stopped briefly at the nearby farm of George Allen, a Truman administration official.

Iron Horse Defeats Pony Express In 75-Mile Race

ROSEBURG, Ore., July 31 (AP)—The Iron Horse chugged serenely into this southwestern Oregon town on schedule at 2:55 a.m. today, victor over 75 horses and their riders in a 75-mile race in the dark.

Horseman Johnnie Spencer of Roseburg pulled up his puffing horse at the station seven minutes after the train had rolled to a stop.

An estimated 2,000 persons were waiting for the finish at the station. They had whiled away the early morning hours with a watermelon feed and street dancing.

The Southern Pacific—under fire from residents along the line who call its train "The Night Crawler" because of the slow pace—took its win modestly.

Said Bernal S. Quayle, Portland general passenger agent for the railroad:

"It was gratifying the way our lowly night crawler fought off the nightmares. We salute the gallant jockey of our iron horse and his valiant crew who delivered the mail so ably."

The gallant jockey of the train was engineer Claude A. Brien-

PHS Allocates Salk Vaccine For State Use

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The Public Health Service announced today its first allocation of Salk polio vaccine to the states for distribution through commercial channels and local public agencies.

The Health Service said the first batch of 846,000 ccs has been apportioned to the states for this new program. It said each new batch will be allocated as soon as it becomes available. One cubic centimeter is enough for one injection.

Each state will determine what proportion of its share of the vaccine will go to public agencies, such as local health departments, and what amount will be distributed by the manufacturers through regular drug channels for use by private physicians.

The Health Service said allocations to the states will be based on each state's proportion of children in the 5 through 9 age group, excluding those children already vaccinated with free shots under the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis program. The announcement added that the 5-9 age group was chosen in May by the National Advisory Committee on Polio as the most susceptible to polio.

Today's announcement followed by one day a statement by the National Polio Foundation that it has more than enough of the Salk vaccine for its summer inoculations. The foundation will have further heavy requirements for continuation of second shots of the vaccine to children after schools open in the fall.

Since the revised testing procedures for the vaccine were adopted May 26, the government has released 5,068,000 ccs all to the foundation.

The 846,000 shots allotted to the states today was left over from the last batch of vaccine released after the needs of the foundation were met.

The Health Service said it has asked the states to notify the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of the proportion of their allotted vaccine to be shipped to public agencies and to be released through normal drug channels.

Belmont Heiress Apparent Suicide

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Miss Alice Belmont, one of the heiresses of the gigantic fortune of banker August Belmont Jr., was found dead in her gas-filled Manhattan apartment today. Police listed the death as apparent suicide.

Miss Belmont, 44, inherited one of the most glittering names in the social register. She was prodigal with money when she was younger and this led members of her family to have her certified as incompetent to handle her own affairs in 1941.

Signs Contract

Hellvi Rombin, "Miss Universe" of Sweden, happily signs a long-term exclusive contract with Universal-International Studios in Hollywood. She will make her film debut with Steve Allen (right), in the "Benny Goodman Story." Robert Palmer, U-I talent executive, represented the studio at the signing ceremonies.

American Plane Forced To Land By Israel Pilots

LYDDA, Israel, July 31 (AP)—Two Israeli fighter planes forced an American civilian plane circling over Haifa to land at Lydda Airport today for identification.

The plane's pilot and owner, H.S. King of Uvalde, Texas, explained he thought Haifa, Israel, was Beirut, Lebanon. Authorities accepted the explanation and permitted the plane to proceed.

King and his passengers—Leon Voellmy of Hawthorne, N.J., and C. H. Forwerk of Napoleon, Ohio—are employed by the Aerial Service Corp. of Philadelphia, Pa. They were heading from Cairo to Beirut.

Crowd Riots Awaiting Suttee

BOMBAY, India, July 31 (AP)—Police opened fire last night on a huge throng of Indians assembled to watch a Hindu woman commit suttee — throw herself upon her husband's funeral pyre. Official reports said three persons were killed and five wounded.

The crowd — officially estimated to number 200,000 — became irate because authorities removed the woman to a hospital. It later developed the woman's husband was not dead. Suttee, which in Hindi means a faithful wife, has been forbidden for more than a century but still is practiced, on occasion, in remote areas.

Reports reaching here today from the scene, the village of Tukral, 500 miles northeast of here, gave this account:

Mrs. Gend Kurwan predicted her crippled husband, Siddhanath, would die of snakebite on July 29 — last Friday. On Thursday, she announced her determination to die in the flames of his funeral pyre.

Crowds from near and far attracted by these reports, assembled in the "darshan" — a holy glimpse — of a woman committing suttee. But Siddhanath survived the snakebite and he was hospitalized in Indore for treatment of a gangrenous leg. Mrs. Kurwan was taken to the hospital with him.

When the crowds learned the woman had been taken away by authorities, they set upon the guards at the village cemetery. The guards, unable to withstand the pushing, milling throng, opened fire. Later, three platoons of riflemen were rushed from Indore to Tukral to help restore order.

Canada Flies Across Channel

CALAIS, France, July 31 (AP)—Canadian pilot Jean de la Bruyere hopped across the English Channel and back again today in a replica of the little homemade monoplane Louis Bleriot used to make the first channel crossing by air 46 years ago.

De La Bruyere went Frenchman Bleriot one better. Bleriot's plane crash landed in England. De La Bruyere made the round trip of a little more than 40 miles in an hour 40 minutes.

Abbott Hints Frame-Up In Girl's Murder

OAKLAND, Calif., July 31 (AP)—Burton Abbott, 27, indicted for the murder of Stephanie Bryan, 14, hinted in a newspaper interview today that he might have been "framed."

The San Francisco Examiner, in a copyrighted story, quoted him as saying:

"Look at it this way. This whole thing could have started as something else, you know. I don't know what. And then, somehow, I was implicated unintentionally."

"Or it could have been started as an intentional act to get rid of me. But, then, when I think of that I come back to the question—who would want to get rid of me?"

Abbott, in an interview at his cell door, also disclosed for the first time that he had made a second trip to his family's cabin 270 miles north of the Bay area in Trinity County.

His brother, Harold Mark Abbott, and a friend went with him on that second trip, the week of June 27. Abbott said they found four other members of his family when they arrived and stayed "about five days."

Abbott, a tubercular University of California student, was indicted after Stephanie's body was found July 20 less than 100 yards from the cabin.

He said previously that he had been at the cabin April 28, the day the girl disappeared while walking home from school at Berkeley.

Asked if anyone also had visited the cabin after April 28, he replied:

"Oh, yes. We have some relatives who were up there several times. They were in and out of there a lot."

"And, furthermore, any number of people knew about the place, as I've told you. I talked about it, for example, with fellows at the veterans' sanitarium at Livermore where I was a tuberculous patient."

Abbott, who repeatedly has said he is innocent, declared again today: "I have nothing to confess to."

Largest Map Section Finished

PASADENA, Calif., July 31 (AP)—The first section of the biggest map of the universe—perhaps the astronomical Bible for the next century—has been completed by the National Geographic Society and California Institute of Technology.

Millions of new stars, galaxies and systems of galaxies are shown in the first 200 photo sky charts prepared by Palomar Observatory over the past seven years.

Many of the space regions photographed in detail by Palomar's 48-inch Big Schmidt telescope have never been seen before by astronomers.

The joint Geographic-Caltech survey has mapped three-quarters of the sky out to an unprecedented depth in space of 600 million light years. One light year is about six million million miles.

The total atlas, when finished in 1956, will comprise 1,758 photo-maps. Price per copy—which Caltech says will cover only printing costs—is about $2,000. Nearly 100 have been ordered by leading observatories and schools throughout the world.

Solons Think U.S. Gains In Peace Effort

Critical Negotiations Still Face Nation In Months Ahead

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Top spokesmen for the two major parties in the Senate expressed agreement today that the United States has gained ground in the search for world peace but still faces critical negotiations in the months ahead.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), summing up the international situation as the first session of the 84th Congress drew toward a close, said he thinks tensions are not as great as when the lawmakers convened in January. He said the Far East remains "the point of greatest danger for the moment."

Made Some Progress

In a separate interview, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said "we have made some progress in exploratory conferences" but "it is too early to come to a final conclusion" as to whether Russia's conciliatory attitude will be carried into the foreign ministers negotiations in October.

George heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of which Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, is a member.

George expressed the belief "things may get out of hand" in the Far East "unless we act wisely and resolutely."

"There is the possibility of renewal, perhaps on a more active scale, of the threatening situation around Formosa," he said.

An unwritten cease fire has been in effect between Chinese Communists and Nationalists in that area, except for some sporadic outbursts. Red China's Premier Chou En-lai has called for the peaceful "liberation" of nationalist-held Formosa.

Knowland said he doesn't believe anyone yet can guess the intentions of Red China in that area.

"We do know they are building up their military facilities there," he said. "Whether these are of an offensive or a defensive nature is not clear."

Commies Have Opportunity
"The Chinese Communists have the opportunity in the meeting Monday to demonstrate by deeds instead of words if they want peace by the release of Americans held prisoner in China."

"Their actions will show whether there is any possibility of carrying on further conversations on issues directly affecting the two countries."

Knowland said he remains vigorously opposed to discussion of any issues that involve the sovereignty, people or territory of the Chinese Nationalists unless they are represented at the conference table.

Fresh Morocco Riots Break Out

MARRAKECH, French Morocco, July 31 (AP)—Fresh nationalist rioting broke out here today following yesterday's disturbances in which at least 15 persons died.

First reports said one Moroccan was killed and seven wounded in today's disorders, which coincided with funeral services for the natives killed yesterday.

A cortege wound through the native quarter of this south Moroccan city, bearing the bodies to a Moslem cemetery. The procession quickly grew in size and someone fired at a truckload of gendarmes. The police shot into the crowd.

Fires set by terrorists smoldered in various parts of the city.

Hundreds Flee Hot Lava As Chile Volcanoes Erupt

VALDIVIA, Chile, July 31 (AP)—Hundreds of persons carrying their exhausted children were reported fleeing today from burning lava and rocks erupting from volcanoes Nilahue and Rininahue. At least 36 persons are missing, presumably asphyxiated by poisonous fumes.

Thirty-five others were believed trapped without food in an area where the concentration of poisonous gases is heavy.

As the violent eruptions continued for the sixth day, the governor of Valdivia described it as "the greatest catastrophe of this type ever witnessed in Chile."

The governor, who had made a tour of the devastated region, said the heavy pall of smoke and the rain of ashes and rocks presents "an overwhelming vision of terror."

No vegetable life remains over a large area, he said. Ashes and lava have covered the fields, burning crops and destroying grazing ranges.

Some rivers were reported dammed by the lava flows, their

3,342,599 Babies Born In U.S. Hospitals In 1954

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—A total of 3,342,599 babies were born in U.S. hospitals last year, a gain of 233,529 over 1953.

The American Hospital Assn. also announced today that the nation's hospitals cared for 20,345,431 patients in 1954, a record high. It marked an increase of 161,604 over the 1953 total and continued the annual rise which has taken place since the AHA began its statistical records on admissions in 1946.

The average cost per patient stay was $171 compared with $160 in 1953.

The average patient stay in the short-term general hospital was 7.8 days, against 7.0 days in 1953 and 9.1 days in 1946.

South Korean Gen. Says Reds Building Force

SEOUL, Korea, July 31 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Kim Chung Yul, chief of staff of the South Korean air force, says the North Korean and Chinese Communists have built up five air divisions in direct violation of the armistice.

He said the divisions include 300 MIG 15 jet fighters.

Kim declared in an interview that the Reds also have not only repaired and improved the 30 North Korean airfields which had been knocked out when the Korean fighting ended in 1953 but have built at least five new airbases.

They also are "building underground hangars and aircraft parking places," he said.

The youthful looking, 38-year-old air chief said Korea urgently needs at least four wings of modern fighters and fighter-bombers to counter the Communist threat.

These 300 planes also would be able to provide cover for the 20 Republic of Korea army divisions.

"We must build up the Korean air forces — tell Americans that, please," Kim said.

Kim said the latest information from North Korea, some of it from Communist defectors, is that there are three Red air divisions of 100 MIG fighters each in North Korea, an air division of between 90 and 100 twin-engine IL-28 B25-type light bombers in Manchuria and a fifth wing of combined bomber and Yak-type light piston-engine aircraft.

He added that while there may be more fields, ROK forces know the location of 35 operational air strips in North Korea. These include 15 that have runways of 8,000 or 9,000 feet and thus are suitable for jets.

Benefits Hassle Delays Congress

Public Housing Also Deadlocked

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A Senate-House hassle over congressional fringe benefits and a deadlock on public housing raised a question today as to just when Congress will adjourn for the year.

Leaders are aiming now for a final gavel fall sometime tomorrow night, but the session may drag on for another two or three days. The lawmakers already have passed the July 31 adjournment deadline suggested, but not required, by the 1946 Reorganization act.

House leaders were threatening to keep Congress in session indefinitely, if necessary, to break down what they call "an outrageous" position taken by the Senate over Capitol Hill pay and other benefits.

Quarrel Develops

The quarrel developed over what is sometimes jestingly referred to as the "boodle bill," appropriating funds for legislative expenses. All the others, amounting to 52 billion dollars, have gone to the White House. It decided to add them in a Senate-House conference, on the theory the Senate wouldn't object to the traditional procedure of each branch's allowing for its own housekeeping needs without interference from the other.

As passed by the House, the bill appropriated about 60 million dollars. The Senate added nearly 33 million more.

Strict Limitations

The outlook was that the final compromise would authorize 35,000 units for each of the next two years — as President Eisenhower requested — with strict limitations on occupancy.

The Senate has voted for 135,000 units in each of the next four years; the House, mainly at Republican insistence, has voted for none. Senators are holding out for a minimum of 50,000 for one year as a compromise; representatives insist on an annual top of 35,000. Conferees argued until last midnight but failed to break the deadlock. They'll try again tomorrow. Measures still on tap include: A two billion dollar boost in the government's authority to make loans for the farm price support program. This has cleared the Senate.

A Senate-passed bill extending the small business administration. A Senate-passed bill providing free polio vaccine for most minors. The House wants to limit free distribution to needy children.

Iron Horse Defeats Pony Express In 75-Mile Race

ROSEBURG, Ore., July 31 (AP)—The Iron Horse chugged serenely into this southwestern Oregon town on schedule at 2:55 a.m., today, victor over 75 horses and their riders in a 75-mile race in the dark.

Horseman Johnnie Spencer of Roseburg pulled up his puffing horse at the station seven minutes after the train had rolled to a stop.

An estimated 2,000 persons were waiting for the finish at the station. They had whiled away the early morning hours with a watermelon feed and street dancing.

The Southern Pacific—under fire from residents along the line who call its train "The Night Crawler" because of the slow pace—took its win modestly.

Said Bernal S. Quayle, Portland general passenger agent for the railroad: "It was gratifying the way our lowly night crawler fought off the nightmares. We salute the gallant jockey of our iron horse and his valiant crew who delivered the mail so ably."

The gallant jockey of the train was engineer Claude A. Briden-

PHS Allocates Salk Vaccine For State Use

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The Public Health Service announced today its first allocation of Salk polio vaccine to the states for distribution through commercial channels and local public agencies.

The Health Service said the first batch of 846,000 ccs has been apportioned to the states for this new program. It said each new batch will be allocated as soon as it becomes available. One cubic centimeter is enough for one injection.

Each state will determine what proportion of its share of the vaccine will go to public agencies, such as local health departments, and what amount will be distributed by the manufacturers through regular drug channels for use by private physicians.

The Health Service said allocations to the states will be based on each state's proportion of children in the 5 through 9 age group, excluding those children already vaccinated with free shots under the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis program. The announcement added that the 5-9 age group was chosen in May by the National Advisory Committee on Polio as the most susceptible to polio.

Today's announcement followed by one day a statement by the National Polio Foundation that it has more than enough of the Salk vaccine for its summer inoculations. The foundation will have further heavy requirements for continuation of second shots of the vaccine to children after schools open in the fall.

Since the revised testing procedures for the vaccine were adopted May 26, the government has released 5,068,000 ccs all to the foundation.

The 846,000 shots allotted to the states today was left over from the last batch of vaccine released after the needs of the foundation were met.

The Health Service said it has asked the states to notify the Department of Health, Education and Welfare of the proportion of their allotted vaccine to be shipped to public agencies and to be released through normal drug channels.

Belmont Heiress Apparent Suicide

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Miss Alice Belmont, one of the heiresses of the gigantic fortune of banker August Belmont Jr., was found dead in her gas-filled Manhattan apartment today. Police listed the death as apparent suicide.

Miss Belmont, 44, inherited one of the most glittering names in the social register. She was prodigal with money when she was younger and this led members of her family to have her certified as incompetent to handle her own affairs in 1941.

Hellvi Rombin, "Miss Universe" of Sweden, happily signs a long-term exclusive contract with Universal-International Studios in Hollywood. American Plane Forced To Land By Israel Pilots

LYDDA, Israel, July 31 (AP)—Two Israeli fighter planes forced an American civilian plane circling over Haifa to land at Lydda Airport today for identification.

The plane's pilot and owner, H.S. King of Uvalde, Texas, explained he thought Haifa, Israel, was Beirut, Lebanon. Authorities accepted the explanation and permitted the plane to proceed.

King and his passengers—Leon Voellmy of Hawthorne, N.J., and C. H. Forwerk of Napoleon, Ohio—are employed by the Aerial Service Corp. of Philadelphia, Pa. They were heading from Cairo to Beirut.

Crowd Riots Awaiting Suttie

BOMBAY, India, July 31 (AP)—Police opened fire last night on a huge throng of Indians assembled to watch a Hindu woman commit suicide — throw herself upon her husband's funeral pyre. Official reports said three persons were killed and five wounded.

The crowd — officially estimated to number 200,000 — became irate because authorities removed the woman to a hospital. It later developed the woman's husband was not dead. Suttie, which in Hindi means a faithful wife, has been forbidden for more than a century but still is practiced, on occasion, in remote areas.

Reports reaching here today from the scene, the village of Tukral, 500 miles northeast of here, gave this account:

Mrs. Gend Kurwan predicted her crippled husband, Siddhanath, would die of snakebite on July 29—last Friday. On Thursday, she announced her determination to die in the flames of his funeral pyre.

Crowds from near and far attracted by these reports, assembled for a "darshan" — holy glimpse — of a woman committing suicide. But Siddhanath survived the snakebite and he was hospitalized in Indore for treatment of a gangrenous leg. Mrs. Kurwan was taken to the hospital with him.

When the crowds learned the woman had been taken away by authorities, they set upon the guards at the village cemetery. The guards, unable to withstand the pushing, milling throng, opened fire. Later, three platoons of riflemen were rushed from Indore to Tukral to help restore order.

Canadian Flies Across Channel

CALAIS, France, July 31 (AP)—Canadian pilot Jean de la Bruyere hopped across the English Channel and back again today in a replica of the little homemade monoplane Louis Bleriot used to make the first channel crossing by air 46 years ago.

De La Bruyere went Frenchman Bleriot one better. Bleriot's plane crashed landed in England. De La Bruyere made the round trip of a little more than 40 miles in an hour 40 minutes.

Abbott Hints Frame-Up In Girl's Murder

OAKLAND, Calif., July 31 (AP)—Burton Abbott, 27, indicted for the murder of Stephanie Bryan, 14, hinted in a newspaper interview today that he might have been "framed."

The San Francisco Examiner, in a copyrighted story, quoted him as saying: "Look at it this way. This whole thing could have started as something else, you know. I don't know what. And then, somehow, I was implicated unintentionally."

"Or it could have been started as an intentional act to get rid of me. But then, when I think of it, I come back to the question—how would I want to get rid of me?"

Abbott, in an interview at his cell door, also disclosed for the first time that he had made a second trip to his family's cabin 270 miles north of the Bay area in Trinity County.

His brother, Harold Mark Abbott, and a friend went with him on that second trip, the week of June 27. Abbott said they found four other members of his family when they arrived and stayed "about five days."

Abbott, a tubercular University of California student, was indicted after Stephanie's body was found July 20 less than 100 yards from the cabin.

He said previously that he had been at the cabin April 28, the day the girl disappeared while walking home from school at Berkeley.

Asked if anyone also had visited the cabin after April 28, he replied: "Oh, yes. We have some relatives who were up there several times. They were in and out of there a lot."

"And, furthermore, any number of people knew about the place, as I've told you. I talked about it, for example, with fellows at the veterans' sanitarium at Livermore where I was a tuberculosis patient."

Abbott, who repeatedly has said he is innocent, declared again today: "I have nothing to confess to."

Largest Map Section Finished

PASADENA, Calif., July 31 (AP)—The first section of the biggest map of the universe—perhaps the astronomical Bible for the next century—has been completed by the National Geographic Society and California Institute of Technology.

Millions of new stars, galaxies and systems of galaxies are shown in the first 200 photo sky charts prepared by Palomar Observatory over the past seven years.

Many of the space regions photographed in detail by Palomar's 48-inch Big Schmidt telescope have never been seen before by astronomers.

The joint Geographic-Caltech survey has mapped three-quarters of the sky out to an unprecedented depth in space of 600 million light years. One light year is about six million million miles.

The total atlas, when finished in 1956, will comprise 1,758 photo-maps. Price per copy—which Caltech says will cover only printing costs—is about $2,000. Nearly 100 have been ordered by leading observatories and schools throughout the world.

Solons Think U.S. Gains In Peace Effort

Critical Negotiations Still Face Nation In Months Ahead

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Top spokesmen for the two major parties in the Senate expressed agreement today that the United States has gained ground in the search for world peace but still faces critical negotiations in the months ahead.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), summing up the international situation as the first session of the 84th Congress drew toward a close, said he thinks tensions are not as great as when the lawmakers convened in January. He said the Far East remains "the point of greatest danger for the moment."

Made Some Progress

In a separate interview, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said "we have made some progress in exploratory conferences" but "it is too early to come to a final conclusion" as to whether Russia's conciliatory attitude will be carried into the foreign ministers negotiations in October.

George heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of which Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, is a member.

George expressed the belief "things may get out of hand" in the Far East "unless we act wisely and resolutely."

"There is the possibility of renewal, perhaps on a more active scale, of the threatening situation around Formosa," he said.

An unwritten cease fire has been in effect between Chinese Communists and Nationalists in that area, except for some sporadic outbreaks, Red China's Premier Chou En-lai has called for the peaceful "liberation" of nationalist-held Formosa.

Knowland said he doesn't believe anyone yet can guess the intentions of Red China in that area. "We do know they are building up their military facilities there," he said. "Whether these are of an offensive or a defensive nature is not clear."

Commies Have Opportunity

"The Chinese Communists have the opportunity in the meeting Monday to demonstrate by deeds instead of words if they want peace by the release of Americans held prisoner in China."

"Their actions will show whether there is any possibility of carrying on further conversations on issues directly affecting the two countries."

Knowland said he remains vigorously opposed to discussion of any issues that involve the sovereignty, people or territory of the Chinese Nationalists unless they are represented at the conference table.

Fresh Morocco Riots Break Out

MARRAKECH, French Morocco, July 31 (AP)—Fresh nationalist rioting broke out here today following yesterday's disturbances in which at least 15 persons died.

First reports said one Moroccan was killed and seven wounded in today's disorders, which coincided with funeral services for the natives killed yesterday.

A cortege wound through the native quarter of this south Moroccan city, bearing the bodies to a Moslem cemetery. The procession quickly grew in size and someone fired at a truckload of gendarmes. The police shot into the crowd.

Fires set by terrorists smoldered in various parts of the city.

Hundreds Flee Hot Lava As Chile Volcanoes Erupt

VALDIVIA, Chile, July 31 (AP)—Hundreds of persons carrying their exhausted children were reported fleeing today from burning lava and rocks erupting from volcanoes Nilahué and Rinnahué. At least 36 persons are missing, presumably asphyxiated by poisonous fumes.

Thirty-five others were believed trapped without food in an area where the concentration of poisonous gases is heavy.

As the violent eruptions continued for the sixth day, the governor of Valdivia described it as "the greatest catastrophe of this type ever witnessed in Chile."

The governor, who had made a tour of the devastated region, said the heavy pall of smoke and the rain of ashes and rocks presents "an overbearing vision of terror."

No vegetable life remains over a large area, he said. Ashes and lava have covered the fields, burning crops and destroying grazing ranges.

Some rivers were reported dammed by the lava flows, their

3,342,599 Babies Born In U.S. Hospitals In 1954

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—A total of 3,342,599 babies were born in U.S. hospitals last year, a gain of 233,529 over 1953.

The American Hospital Assn. also announced today that the nation's hospitals cared for 20,345,431 patients in 1954, a record high. It marked an increase of 161,604 over the 1953 total and continued the annual rise which has taken place since the AHA began its statistical records on admissions in 1946.

The average cost per patient stay was $171 compared with $169 in 1953.

The average patient stay in the short-term general hospital was 7.8 days, against 7.0 days in 1953 and 9.1 days in 1946.

South Korean Gen. Says Reds Building Force

SEOUL, Korea, July 31 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Kim Chung Yul, chief of staff of the South Korean air force, says the North Korean and Chinese Communists have built up five air divisions in direct violation of the armistice.

He said the divisions include 300 MIG 15 jet fighters.

Kim declared in an interview that the Reds also have not only repaired and improved the 30 North Korean airfields which had been knocked out when the Korean fighting ended in 1953 but have built at least five new airbases.

They also are "building underground hangars and aircraft parking places, he said.

The youthful looking, 38-year-old air chief said Korea urgently needs at least four wings of modern fighters and fighter-bombers to counter the Communist threat. These 300 planes also would be able to provide cover for the 20 Republic of Korea army divisions.

"We must build up the Korean air forces — tell Americans that, please," Kim said.

Kim said the latest information from North Korea, some of it from Communist defectors, is that there are three Red air divisions of 100 MIG fighters each in North Korea, an air division of between 90 and 100 twin-engine IL28 B25-type light bombers in Manchuria and a fifth wing of piston-engine aircraft.

He added that while there may be more fields, ROK forces know the location of 35 operational air strips in North Korea. These include 15 that have runways of 8,000 or 9,000 feet and thus are suitable for jets.

Korean sources differ as to Red air strength in the area. Gen. Lee Hyung Keun, chairman of the South Korean joint chiefs of staff, said recently the Communists have seven air divisions and 40 air bases in North Korea. He said the divisions are made up of 380 combat planes, including 300 MIG15s, 120 bombers and 100 fighter-bombers.

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today that New York Gov. Averell Harriman seems to be gaining favor as a Democratic presidential nominee.

Envoys Plan Discussion Of Red Captives

Johnson Arrives At Geneva; Wang Already Located

GENEVA, July 31 (AP)—U. Alexis Johnson arrived in Geneva today for talks with Communist China about 51 Americans detained in China and other issues.

Johnson, the U. S. ambassador in Prague, would not discuss the substance of his mission. He was informed, upon arrival, by U. S. Consul General Franklin C. Gowen that Ambassador Wang Ping-nan already had embarked on a campaign to enhance the Red Chinese position.

Wang, who arrived Friday, immediately opened relations with the Swiss and foreign press here. In a statement issued today from the Communist Chinese consulate where he is staying, Wang said Premier Chou En-lai's proposal at the Bandung conference for U. S.-Red Chinese talks on the Formosa question had received a warm welcome in the world.

Hope To Pave Way

"We will endeavor to make the forthcoming talks pave the way for further negotiations between China and the United States," Wang said. Johnson and Wang are expected to meet for the first time tomorrow.

The talks will be held in the Palace of Nations, European headquarters of the U. N., where a little more than a week ago the Big Four summit conference was held.

A relatively small office will be used and the two sides will divide the rental of five francs ($1.15) per day.

V. K. Krishna Menon, foreign affairs adviser to Prime Minister Nehru of India, arrived in Geneva from London tonight, but he insisted his arrival on the eve of the talks was "sheer coincidence."

Krishna Menon said he was on his way to India and he stopped in Geneva to conduct some private business. The Indian envoy, who has long advocated talks between Chou En-lai and U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, said he was happy the U. S. and Red Chinese ambassadors were meeting and "quite sure that something will come out of it."

Johnson Is Pleased

"But," he added, "the best thing I can do is to keep out of it."

Johnson expressed pleasure tonight that Ambassador Wang was representing the Communist Chinese, noting that he had initiated talks with Wang during the Indo-China conference here last year. Wang is ambassador in Warsaw now.

Johnson said the purpose of the talks was stated in the U. S. State Department announcement of July 25 and declined to discuss it. That announcement said the talks, were designed to "bring about agreement on the return of U. S. civilians detained in China and facilitate further discussions and settlement of other practical matters now in issue."

Board Names Turnbull New County Official

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners by a 2 to 1 vote Friday named Robert W. Turnbull, of Lonaconing, as constable at large for Trial Magistrates' Court at Cumberland and Cresaptown.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson voted to name Harold Brooks to the position, but failed when Commissioners James Orr and William H. Lemmert supported Turnbull.

The position pays approximately $120 monthly and certain fees.

The board also received a letter listing the salaries for the supervisor and assessors of the County Assessing Department for the

Douglas Is Named Director Of Bank

It was confirmed Saturday by Joseph M. Naughton, president of The Second National Bank of Cumberland that its board of directors has appointed William A. Douglas to the vacant directorship that was caused by the death of John Schwarzenbach. Douglas is president of the Cumberland County Club, and of the George F. Hazelwood Company which is the general contractor on the current construction program of the bank.

period from July 1 this year to June 30, 1956.

Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, will receive $5,600; Edward Eichner and Claude R. Woodward, assessors, will receive $4,300; Francis J. Plummer, $3,775, and David E. Kirk, $3,550. Another assessor not yet named will also receive $3,550.

The salaries of the assessors are increased year to year until they reach the maximum. Half of the total of the salaries is paid by the county and half by the state, and the overall total for the current fiscal year will be $25,075.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board reported on an investigation by J. Walter Chapman, roads supervisor, on the application of James E. Smith for a junk yard and used car lot in McCoole.

Getty said Smith has agreed to erect a 20 by 30 concrete block building in which to store parts, states he will do no burning on the site and will dispose of scrap metal load by load.

Nearly property owners have not voiced any objection to the junk yard under the terms listed by Smith. One man who had previously objected to the proposed junk yard said he would withdraw his objection if the place is operated as outlined by Smith.

The board withheld granting a permit for the business until the man who has withdrawn his objection officially notifies the board.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Many attractive women have freckles sprinkled on their faces. We Powers folk like 'em! In fact, they are considered quite attractive by most men.

However, if you don't care for freckles, the wise thing is prevention or work to make them less conspicuous. Never fail to use a sun-screening lotion or sun allergy cream. Freckles are usually an accompaniment to delicate skin, and it is wise to wear a hat to block old Sol's strong rays.

There are lotions on the market that manufacturers say will gradually fade freckles. But, don't be too upset if freckles refuse to surrender. Many specks are stubborn, and preparations will lighten only temporarily. Freckles are really an alteration in the pigment under the skin due to the effects of sun and wind.

Some well-known dermatologists have been successful in removing freckles by skin surgery. But, let us tell you what happened to one Powers Girl. After the treatment and expense, she told us she would give anything to have her freckles back. It would have been better to have used a freckle hide—a tinted cover-up powder base.

The products made to hide freckles are obtainable in cream, cake, liquid, or stick form for every skin type—dry, oily, or normal. One with an opaque base is best for hiding freckles. Try a sample, if possible, before buying. Blend a bit of the cover-up of the inside of your wrist to be sure it matches your skin tones. Don't get a darker shade—this will just produce an artificial look. Wear two coats and use a bright lipstick and a little eye shadow so that the lips and eyes will steal the spotlight from your skin.

Don't worry too much about freckles. They usually fade as you get older, anyway.

County Is Listed Last In Farm Gross Income

Allegany County, which has about 75 per cent of its land covered with forests, ranks last in gross farm income in Maryland, according to a report issued by the Maryland State Planning Commission.

The report lists the figures for 1954 on a gross farm cash income. The state had an overall total of $252,029,000 with Allegany County's total being $1,678,000, or .67 per cent of the state total.

Garrett County had a total income for the same period of $4,978,000. The majority of this was income from dairy farming. Other crops include potatoes, wheat, buckwheat and maple sugar.

With the gross farm income of the United States for 1954 estimated at $29,700,000,000 the Maryland share is listed at .85 per cent. The counties with the largest farm income are Frederick, $23,578,000; Worcester, $20,960,000; Wicomico, $18,680,000; Carroll, $16,765,000; Montgomery, $15,736,000 and Baltimore County, $15,710,000.

Caroline County also had a large farm income with a $14,920,000 total.

Several of the counties listed at the top of the farm income group are those which have large truck garden operations and raise several crops a year, especially in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore.

Industrially, Allegany is one of the top counties but agriculturally it is far behind the rest of the state.

Board Names Turnbull New County Official

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners by a 2 to 1 vote Friday named Robert W. Turnbull, of Lonaconing, as constable at large for Trial Magistrates' Court at Cumberland and Cresaptown.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson voted to name Harold Brooks to the position, but failed when Commissioner James Orr and William H. Lemmert supported Turnbull.

The position pays approximately $120 monthly and certain fees.

The board also received a letter listing the salaries for the supervisor and assessors of the County Assessing Department for the

Douglas Is Named Director Of Bank

It was confirmed Saturday by Joseph M. Naughton, president of The Second National Bank of Cumberland that its board of directors has appointed William A. Douglas to the vacant directorship that was caused by the death of John Schwarzenbach. Douglas is president of the Cumberland Country Club; and of the George F. Hazelwood Company which is the general contractor on the current construction program of the bank.

period from July 1 this year to June 30, 1956.

Somerville Nicholson, supervisor of assessments, will receive $5,600; Edward Elchmer and Claude R. Woodward, assessors, will receive $4,300; Francis J. Plummer, $3,775; and David E. Kirk, $3,550. Another assessor not yet named will also receive $3,550.

The salaries of the assessors are increased year to year until they reach the maximum. Half of the total of the salaries is paid by the county and half by the state, and the overall total for the current fiscal year will be $25,075.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board reported on an investigation by J. Walter Chapman, roads supervisor, on the application of James E. Smith for a junk yard and used car lot in McCoolle.

Getty said Smith has agreed to erect a 20 by 30 concrete block building in which to store parts, states he will do no burning on the site and will dispose of scrap metal load by load.

Nearby property owners have not voiced any objection to the junk yard under the terms listed by Smith. One man who had previously objected to the proposed junk yard said he would withdraw his objection if the place is operated as outlined by Smith.

The board withheld granting a permit for the business until the man who has withdrawn his objection officially notifies the board.

Protect your delicate complexion from the sun's rays with large hats that flatter.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Many attractive women have freckles sprinkled on their faces. We Powers folk like 'em! In fact, they are considered quite attractive by most men.

However, if you don't care for freckles, the wise thing is prevention or work to make them less conspicuous. Never fail to use a sun-screening lotion or sun allergy cream. Freckles are usually an accompaniment to delicate skin, and it is wise to wear a hat to block old Sol's strong rays.

There are lotions on the market that manufacturers say will gradually fade freckles. But, don't be too upset if freckles refuse to surrender. Many specks are stubborn, and preparations will lighten only temporarily. Freckles are really an alteration in the pigment under the skin due to the effects of sun and wind.

Some well-known dermatologists have been successful in removing freckles by skin surgery. But, let us tell you what happened to one Powers Girl. After the treatment and expense, she told us she would give anything to have her freckles back. It would have been better to have used a freckle hider—a tinted cover-up powder base.

The products made to hide freckles are obtainable in cream, cake, liquid, or stick form for every skin type—dry, oily, or normal. One with an opaque base is best for hiding freckles. Try a sample, if possible, before buying. Blend a bit of the cover-up of the inside of your wrist to be sure it matches your skin tones. Don't get a darker shade—this will just produce an artificial look. Wear two coats and use a bright lipstick and a little eye shadow so that the lips and eyes will steal the spotlight from your skin.

Don't worry too much about freckles. They usually fade as you get older, anyway.

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, July 31 (INS)—Before Betty Hutton, pardon me, Mrs. Alan Livingston, goes into retirement to await the birth of her baby in January, she'll be the guest star on Milton Berle's first TV show from Hollywood in September.

"Luckily I haven't put on a lot of weight as I did when I was expecting my girls," the happy Betty told me, "so maybe Alan and I are right in thinking we will have a boy."

She went on, "another reason I accepted Uncle Miltie's offer is because I won't have the whole show on my shoulders. I'll just belt out a song or two and do a skit with him. Let him do the worrying!"

This, Betty assures us, will absolutely and positively be her final public appearance until after the arrival of the stork.

The silliest gossip floating around is that Paramount, fearing the worst where Martin and Lewis are concerned, is tying out George Gobel to fill their comedy shoes.

As Lonesome George puts it, "I can't. There aren't two of me. I'll be a dirty bird—but I'll never be Martin and Lewis!"

Be that as it may, the studio brass is mightily pleased with George and Mitzi Gaynor as a team in "The Lady Eve" (title indefinite) and a search is really on to find a new comedy to reteam Gobel and Gaynor.

Hollywood in shorts: The final say-so rests with Joan Crawford, who gets here Monday, but John Ericson is high in the running for Mrs. Steele's leading man in "The Way We Live."

Peter Lawford is the latest actor being tempted with a role in "War and Peace" but he wants to see a script to make sure he isn't being lost in the star line-up.

Mona Freeman patched up the broken romance between British Producer Michael Allen and her girlfriend, Beverly Stoner Dolan, ex-wife of Jim Dolan. Marriage is in the offing, with Mona, of course, matron of honor.

That's all today.

Committees appointed for the affair include:

Publicity: Bruce White, chairman, Robert Dawson and Frank Werner; program, Arthur Young, chairman, Norman Fearnov, J. Donald Murray, Steven Novak, Andrew Saliga and Charles J. Laughlin; speaker, Carl Firlie, chairman, Wilbert Logsdon, William B. Kady, Patrick J. Hopkins and James Quinn.

Howell; entertainment, W. Edward Neus, chairman, John Chapman, John Lindner and Michael Lindner, John Kreidler is in charge of tickets.

Music for the dance will be by Arthur Shafer and his orchestra, Condon said.

Local Legion Forms Bicentennial Belle Unit

A new unit of the Bicentennial Belles, the Ding Dong Belles, was organized at a recent meeting at the home of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion.

Outdoor Club To Open Home On Wednesday

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will hold a formal opening of its new home located at 125 Frederick Street on Wednesday, beginning at 8 p. m., for club members, wives and friends.

The club will hold its first meeting in the new quarters today at 8 p. m.

Officers point out that the purchase of the building, formerly the Young Men's Republican Club property, marks another milestone in the club's history, which began in 1928.

At that time, a group of youths, interested in outdoor life, hunting and fishing, organized in a cabin in the vicinity of Mt. Herman near Williams Road.

In 1932, the same group, with a few more members, moved to Maryland Avenue for meeting quarters.

By 1939, the club had many more members and that year purchased a 363-acre tract of land 26 miles east of Cumberland, off Oldtown Road. The land was cleared and developed and a hunting lodge erected.

Officers point out that the land was never posted, that being the club's policy as long as hunters observed good conservation habits. The land is still not posted, except in the immediate vicinity of the club house.

The club obtained its first official charter in 1940 and was incorporated. In 1941, the group moved to the third floor of the Savoy Building on Baltimore Street where it remained until purchasing the Young Men's Republican Club building several months ago.

The club's membership totals 200, with the original ten members still active.

As Lonesome George puts it, "I can't. There aren't two of me. I'll be a dirty bird—but I'll never be Martin and Lewis!"

Be that as it may, the studio brass is mightily pleased with George and Miltie Gaynor as a team in "The Lady Eve" (title indefinite) and a search is really on to find a new comedy to reteam Gobel and Gaynor.

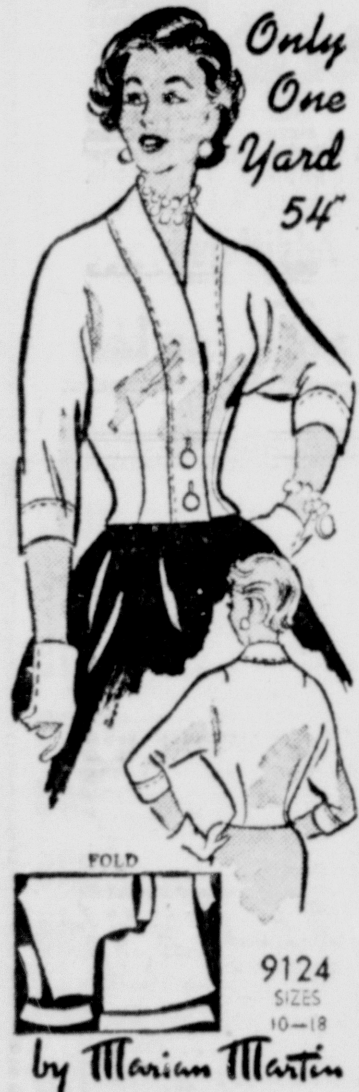

Hollywood in shorts: The final say-so rests with Joan Crawford, who gets here Monday, but John Ericson is high in the running for Mrs. Steele's leading man in "The Way We Are."

Peter Lawford is the latest actor being tempted with a role in "War and Peace" but he wants to see a script to make sure he isn't being lost in the star line-up.

Mona Freeman patched up the broken romance between British Producer Michael Allen and her girlfriend, Beverly Stoner Dolan, ex-wife of Jim Dolan. Marriage is in the offing, with Mona, of course, matron of honor.

That's all today.

Outdoor Club To Open Home On Wednesday

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will hold a formal opening of its new home located at 125 Frederick Street on Wednesday, beginning at 8 p. m., for club members, wives and friends.

The club will hold its first meeting in the new quarters today at 8 p. m.

Officers point out that the purchase of the building, formerly the Young Men's Republican Club property, marks another milestone in the club's history, which began in 1928.

At that time, a group of youths, interested in outdoor life, hunting and fishing, organized in a cabin in the vicinity of Mt. Herman near Williams Road.

In 1932, this same group, with a few more members, moved to Maryland Avenue for meeting quarters.

By 1939, the club had many more members and that year purchased a 363-acre tract of land 28 miles east of Cumberland, off Oldtown Road. The land was cleared and developed and a hunting lodge erected.

Officers point out that the land was never posted, that being the club's policy as long as hunters observed good conservation habits. The land is still not posted, except in the immediate vicinity of the club house.

The club obtained its first official charter in 1940 and was incorporated. In 1941, the group moved to the third floor of the Savy Building on Baltimore Street where it remained until purchasing the Young Men's Republican Club building several months ago.

The club's membership totals 200, with the original ten members still active.

Auto "Life Belts"— New Lease On Living

In line with the current trend of automobile manufacturers to meet the increasing demand by car buyers for more safety equipment on automobiles is the announcement by one of the big three auto makers that safety belts can now be had as optional equipment on any of its models.

Earle S. MacPherson, vice president in charge of engineering of the Ford Motor Company, made the announcement that his company is now making the belts to be installed at extra cost for any buyer of Ford automobiles and trucks. The factory-suggested price for the seat belts is $11.95 plus an installation cost of about $2.

It is indeed a lamentable state of affairs when the people of a civilized nation must begin to protect themselves against one another in the hazards of everyday life, but this is only the beginning. As the years pass automobiles will become still more plentiful, highways more congested and dangers more prevalent. Safety equipment will become more and more a necessary accessory to any automobile. Even before the safety belt has been widely accepted safety experts are talking about crash helmets and all-foam-rubber interiors for automobiles.

As far as the safety belt is concerned, if widely accepted by the motoring public it will undoubtedly save many lives. Full-scale car crash tests and other experiments by many different concerns have demonstrated conclusively that when a car occupant is held fast to his seat in a crash he is subject to much less severe injuries.

Another danger eliminated by the seat belt is that of being tossed from the car. The Ford engineer pointed out, "There is less chance of injury when the motorist . . . is kept within the protective enclosure of the . . ." Deploable as the need for the belt is, the wise motorist will accept it as a necessary evil, for it quite conceivably could give many people a new lease on life.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Conflict Of Interest

The case of Harold Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, raises the issue of conflict of interest. If the administration is to recruit men of talent to manage the various departments of government, the area for recruitment is likely to be limited to men who have proved their abilities and capacities in some phases of private business, except in such fields where scientific and academic disciplines are desired.

The man who succeeds in management in private business is likely to own shares of stock in various companies, to have some money in the bank, to own a home, to be engaged in partnerships, or to be the proprietor of a business. It is now required of such men that they divest themselves of some of these interests when there is a possibility, immediate or remote, of a conflict between their private affairs and their position in government. The sacrifice is so great that few are willing to make it.

The critic of the successful man asks: "How much money does a man need?" The only one who can answer that question is the man who is being asked to give up what it has taken him a lifetime to accumulate. If he does not choose to make the sacrifice, the government has to do without his services. The question then is: Does the government require his particular type of talent?

The law prevents the administration from doing what private business can do. For instance, President Eisenhower cannot go to a competent manager, say like Charles Wilson or Harold Talbott, and say to him: "On what terms will you manage a department of government?" The law limits the salaries of officials; it takes into consideration no obvious facts, such as fixed commitments for rent, insurance, and other contracts; it does not ask what pension arrangements are to be sacrificed. It only says, "This is the job; this is the pay."

Some men like honor and power and take these jobs. Some believe that when the government calls, they should answer. Some men find very quickly that they cannot make ends meet, what with the necessity for two homes and the enormous additional expense of public life.

In the Eisenhower administration there has been an extraordinary turnover on the second level because men have been unable to continue to work for the government as much as they should like to. This is a matter for personal decision and no other person can sit in judgment of a man's requirements.

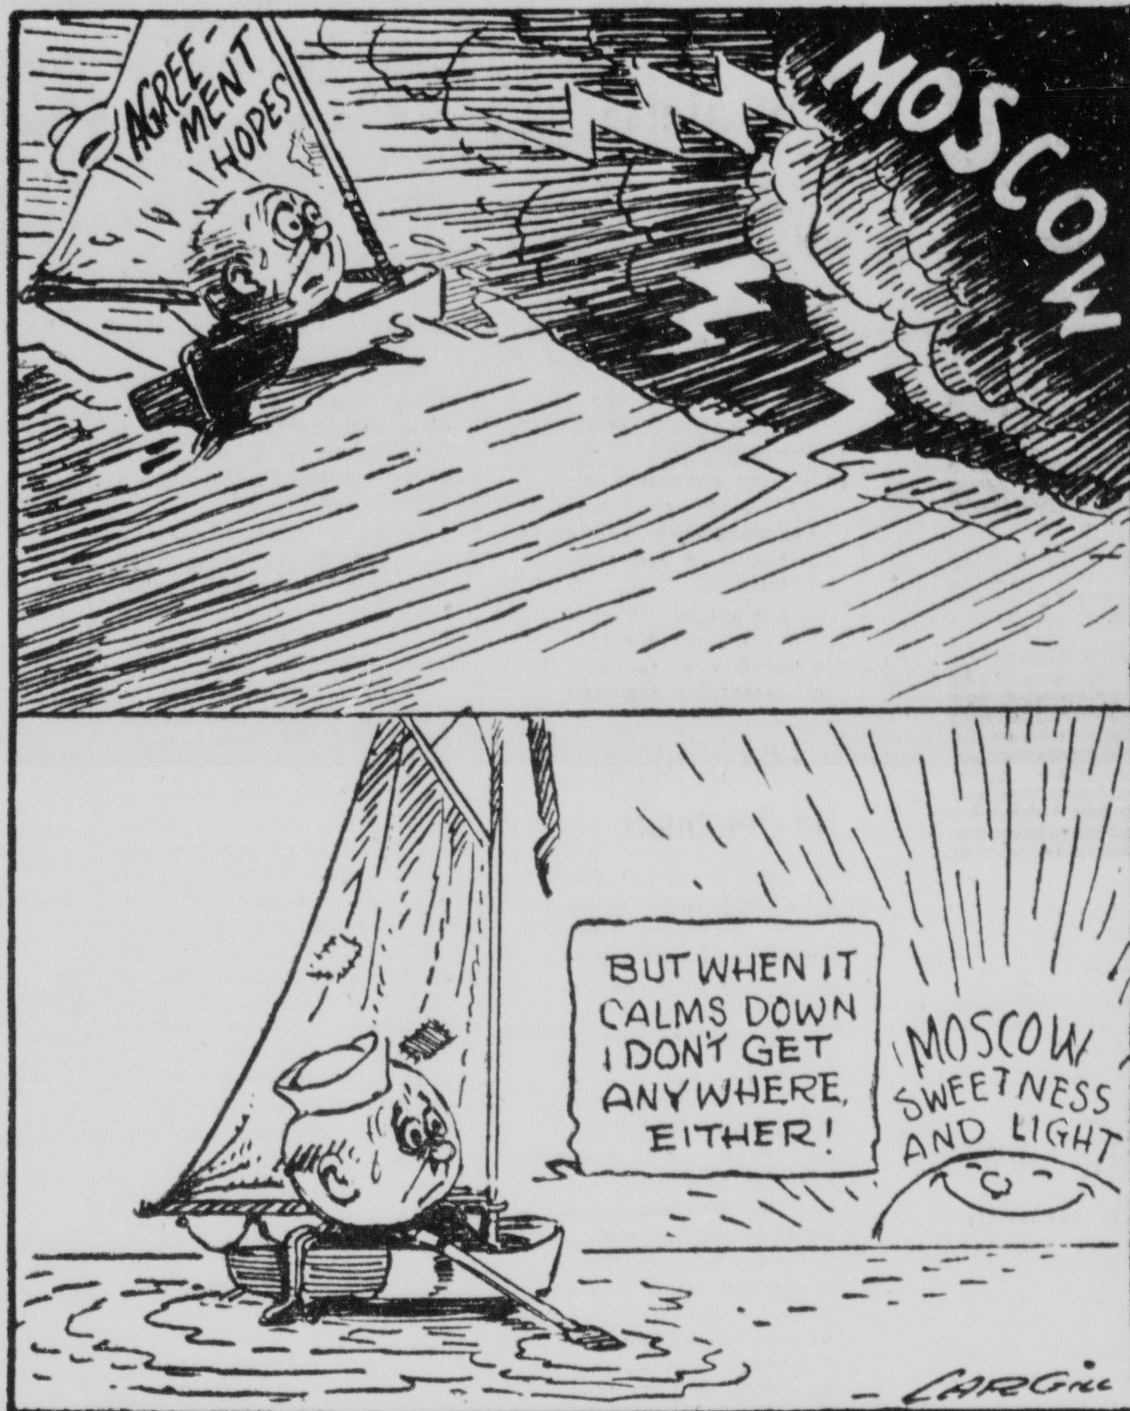

Government operations have become so complex that expert managers are essential in a number of positions. For instance, Harold Talbott's job is one that demands proved managerial skill and a great knowledge of manufacturing processes. It will not serve the United States if in Talbott's place were to go a ward-heeling politician who does not know how an airplane is constructed or what an electron does. Younger lawyers might gain their experience at public expense in the Department of Justice, but such men cannot serve on the Atomic Energy Commission or in the technical phases of the Pentagon.

The eternal politician knows by his type of experience how to avoid pitfalls which to the business man are not pitfalls at all. Harold Talbott, for instance, would never have thought that writing such letters as got him into trouble would present any problem of conflict of interest as, indeed, there is none. In fact, the reason the letters were available was that the Mulligan Company, of which he is a partner, gave the letters to the McClellan Committee freely and without a subpoena. To a business man, such letters are not a conflict of interest; to the practical politician, anything is a conflict of interest which might at the wrong time and under the wrong circumstances become public.

If the government is to utilize managerial skill, it must pay for it and it must plan arrangements to make government employment attractive. Otherwise, except in the emergency of war, competent, tried and experienced men will not work at tasks which do not pay attractively, are of short duration and place the individual at the mercy of publicity-hungry politicians and ambitious young lawyers. The Hoover Commission offered a solution to this problem which has thus far been ignored. But this is certain: We cannot operate a great production enterprise in national defense without managerial skill.

Mischa The Poet And Ivan Ivanovic The Farmer

By Stewart Alsop

KIEV
Political conversation with Russians is like a meaningless litany, repeated over and over again. Non-political conversation with Russians can be interesting or funny or sad, or—and this is by far the most likely—just very Russian indeed.

Taken, for example, the long talk I had last night with Mischa, the poet, and Ivan Ivanovic, the collective farmer. (Cross my heart, those were their real names.) The intelligent Intourist reporter Victor, and I were having a meal in a restaurant overlooking the handsome harbor here, when Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic took the two empty places at our table, after politely asking permission.

The conversation started, of course, with an offer of a vodka carafe from one side of the table to the other. And then, inevitably, there came the litany.

Litany Repeated
"Why do you build air bases around our country?" "Why do you demand that our young editors should be fingerprinted before they can go to America? Fingerprinting is uncivilized and for criminals." "Have you read the famous book by Elliott Roosevelt, son of your great President?" "Why have you been so cruel to the great comedian Charlie Chaplin?" and so on.

If I had just arrived in Russia, I might have thought Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic were "plants," asking carefully prepared questions. But by this time I know that every Russian—quite literally every Russian—repeats the same litany almost in the same words whenever he has the chance to talk face to face with that strange beast, an American.

The entire population of this country cannot possibly consist of intelligence agents, playing an elaborate game on all foreigners. Alas, the plain fact is that this state needs no plants. On all matters, from American air bases to Elliott Roosevelt's nonsensical book, Russians think alike because they have no opportunity to learn to think otherwise. Any serious attempt to explain such matters as the air bases is met with an infuriating, smug obtuseness, and references to such events as the Berlin blockade or the Korean aggression are greeted with blank incredulity.

The ideological curtain between Mischa, Ivan and myself was thicker and more opaque than any mere iron curtain. So, as always in conversations with Russians, our talk reached a total impasse. Then suddenly, as also often happens in conversations with Russians, Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic forgot about political problems and stopped being phonograph records, and became Russians. Mischa, the poet, had wild curly hair and cool black eyes of burning intensity. Ivan Ivanovic had the very high cheek bones and the inflammable soul of the true Slav. Neither was of a reserved nature.

After the political conversation and the second carafe of vodka had simultaneously ended, Mischa fixed me with his burning eyes and implacably demanded every detail of my personal life, starting with my income. I seemed to pass this test.

President Planned To Fire Talbott Last Week But Action Was Delayed

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower was planning to fire Harold Talbott as secretary of the Air Force at his press conference last Wednesday when Talbott called on him at 7:30 a. m. and put up such an argument that he finally agreed to delay action until he had scrutinized the record further.

Here, Mr. President, is some of the amazing record which you will find only partially in the files of the Senate committee, but in full in the confidential files of the Air Force itself.

One letter, already made public but not the story behind it, was written by Talbott on Air Force stationery May 20, 1953, to his partner, Paul Mulligan. The letter reads:

"Dear Paul: I haven't forgotten the Ford matter, but I am a little worried about the best approach in there. Therefore, I haven't come to any decision.

"I enclose herewith a note from Clinton Davidson who is a friend of mine. You might drop him a note and ask him at some convenient time, when he is in New York, to drop by and see you in our offices. I think if you explain to him in detail the line of work that you are doing that he might really be of assistance to you. Sincerely, H."

This reference to Clinton Davidson led to a brief cross-examination at the July 21 Senate hearing, as follows:

Talbott: That man is in the investment counseling work of some kind, and I don't know . . .

Sen. Mundt: You mean Mr. Davidson is an investment counselor?

Talbott: I think that is the business he is in. I don't know what else he has. And I ran into him in a very peculiar way.

In other words, Talbott shrugged off his acquaintance with Davidson and even swore under oath: "I don't know what else he has."

More Talbott Letters
The first incriminating fact is the note Talbott included in his letter to Mulligan. Dated May 14, 1953, it reads:

"Dear Harold: I just came across a memorandum in my file to the effect that about six or seven months ago you introduced me to a Mr. Paul Mulligan. I said that I thought I could be of some assistance to Mr. Mulligan, and you told me that he would get in touch with me by telephone. I have heard nothing from him since then, but I still believe that I might be able to assist him. With all best wishes, I am (signed) Clinton."

The letter was written on the stationery of Clinton Davidson, Box 390, Madison, N. J.

Now let's see who is Clinton Davidson. It turns out that he is close to an old "friend" of mine whom I exposed in the Truman administration—Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan.

And having reported in great detail on the unusual activities of General Vaughan, it's only fair to examine closely the activities of Mr. Davidson in connection with the secretary of the Air Force.

Davidson knew Vaughan well while Vaughan was around the White House and Vaughan once got the unsuspecting Harry Truman to write a letter to the Civil Aeronautics Board granting presidential permission in effect for Davidson's Resort Airlines to make stopovers at Miami.

But having used the Democrats, Davidson turned on the Democrats and contributed heavily to the Republicans to knock them out of office. He contributed through chief GOP money-raiser Talbott to the reported tune of $5,000.

Davidson operates what is known as Estate Management Corp., an investment counseling service. He also runs Resort Airlines of Delaware, which in turn owns 80 per cent of Resort Airlines of North Carolina. This airline has always specialized in "package touring," or charter flights to and from vacation areas.

Suddenly and mysteriously Resort Airlines got into the domestic freight business in 1954—with some help from Talbott. This was a year after Talbott had introduced Davidson to his partner, Mulligan, and Davidson had promised to "be of some assistance" to Mulligan.

Planes To A Friend
Resort Airlines was low bidder

on a Navy cargo contract in July 1954. The strange fact, however, is that Resort bid on the contract before it got any cargo planes. Davidson therefore must have felt confident he would get the equipment. In any case, he was able to lease six Air Force C-46's practically overnight.

This might seem like a simple thing to do since the Air Force is overburdened with C-46's and ordinarily it doesn't take much pull to get C-46's from the Air Force.

However, the Air Force's leasing policy has been inconsistent, and at the time Davidson wangled the six C-46's it happened to be against Air Force policy to lease these planes to private airlines. Hurriedly, however, the policy was changed. And just to make the record look good, the Air Force also leased one C-46 apiece to two other small airlines.

More Contracts
On top of this, on January 1, 1955, Resort obtained a so-called log-air contract from the Air Force to carry jet engines between Air Force installations. In February, incidentally, one of Resort's planes crashed at Hill Air Force Base, Ogden, Utah.

Meanwhile Talbott's friend Davidson began angling to get a couple of large C-54's from the Air Force. These are really hard to get. For 18 months the Air Force has been sufficiently short of C-54's that it has refused to lease any to private airlines and Talbott had made this plain at a House appropriations hearing on February 9, 1955.

In answer to a question as to whether the Air Force planned to turn any more transport planes over to commercial operators, he replied: "Yes, I think we can. Not many. It depends on what they want. If they want the C-54's, no."

Two months later and despite his flat no, Talbott made two C-54's available to Davidson's airline in April 1955. The lawyers came up with a fancy word to get around Air Force policy. Technically the two C-54's were not leased, but were "bailed" to Resort Airlines—though it adds up to the same thing.

While putting across the C-54 deal, Davidson called Talbott on the phone and later sent an assistant, Robert C. Perry, over to Talbott's office. Talbott personally escorted Perry around the office, introducing him to associates, and making generous hints that Perry was a "very good friend" and "we" should take care of any problems he may have.

Despite all this, Talbott had the nerve to testify under oath that he didn't know much about Clinton Davidson, the man he helped so generously.

Crime, Accidents Down

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — It is too bad that the newspapers and broadcasters feel obliged to present so much bad news—about crime, foreign complications, and even auto accidents. Every impartial statistician must be an optimist, to ferret out the facts.

Consider Population Growth
It is true that these three unfortunate things are on the increase, and churches and schools are getting the blame for it. But when crime and accidents are reduced to a per capita basis, the figures are not so bad. Our population is growing so fast that in reality there has been a decrease in crime and accidents when adjusted to the population growth.

Just think, since Hoover was in the White House the net population of the United States has increased over 40,000,000! This is almost equivalent to the entire population of Great Britain. In other words, if, say, the total population of Great Britain had been dumped into the United States in the last 25 years, would we not expect to have even more crime and trouble than we have today?

Automobile Nuisance

I admit that parking problems are terrible. Unless our city fathers remedy these very soon, our merchants will suffer. When their sales decrease, manufacturers cannot sell as many goods and unemployment increases. But—considering the number of automobiles, it is remarkable that we can find any place to park our cars!

Yet, should we blame the automobiles or the ignorance and shortsightedness of our municipal governments? What would any city do today without the automobile business? Close up the dealers, garages, gas stations, and repair shops, and what would we have left? A few blacksmiths would be shoeing horses and there would be dealers in hay and oats—but the life of our cities would be gone. However, we should have both the auto industry and sufficient free parking.

Bounties Of Nature
We not only have wonderful crops; but we have a billion bushels of grain in storage. In addition we have tons of eggs, butter, and other products in storage. No country in the world begins to have our blessings. This applies even to the wealth of the sea and the trees of the forests. Each week as I read a large Sunday paper I regret the acres of splendid woodland which were destroyed to give me the new-paper. Yet, I am assured that the new growth exceeds the destruction.

When I learn of the great rivers which have not yet been harnessed, of the supplies of coal and oil which will last for centuries, and of other God-given natural resources, I am both humble and thankful. And we are just now learning about the power of uranium which may be found anywhere and a pound of which may do the work of 2½ million pounds of coal. It seems wicked for any of us to complain about anything. We perhaps are wasting precious time even bothering to look at stock market quotations or concerning ourselves about investigations. Speaking of "time," this is the only thing of which there is no surplus. Our time is the one thing which we cannot replace when it is wasted.

Freedom From War
Of all our blessings, perhaps the greatest is our freedom from war—and the possibility that world wars may be at an end. Upon the highest military authority, I forecast that the hydrogen bomb may be a blessing in disguise. At any rate, we know that the draft calls are being reduced, and the orders for much military equipment are being canceled.

I grant that it makes some people pessimistic to read the newspapers; but the very fact that the newspapers publish no more about crime and accidents proves that the bad news is becoming proportionately less. Whenever I get pessimistic, which is very seldom, I read the history of England or of some other country. This shows that the world is getting better fast and that my job is to keep up with it. If you have any difficulty being optimistic, read each day one of the Psalms of David. There are 150 of these, so they will keep you busy for five months. They will be the best pills you can take.

A Novel Idea, But Bucolic Life Has Advantages

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deifen

A farm Vacation would be a new experience for many city dwellers. This novel idea, which is gaining momentum, was originated by William Wolfe, a resort hotel representative. It is a mutual affair; farmers earn a few dollars from their urban paying guests and the city bred get a healthful, restful, inexpensive vacation.

A booklet on this organization which now has 195 members, can be obtained by sending 25 cents to Farm Vacations and Holidays, Inc., 500 Fifth Avenue, New York. The information will be of more value for next year as reservations must be made months in advance and in addition, most of us have completed our vacation plans.

The farms range from country estates to the garden variety most of us are acquainted with. One guest wrote of her experience riding horses and tractors and helping to gather eggs, churn butter, milk cows, feed livestock, and pick blackberries. But these chores are voluntary and represent only a small part of the farm holiday. There is plenty of leisure for reading, resting, and exploring the countryside. Nearby golf courses and swimming and fishing facilities usually are available as well as auctions, square dances, summer stock shows, and country fairs.

But plush service and conveniences or planned entertainment need not be expected. The farmer and his family must continue their routine work and guests are a secondary consideration.

A vacation in one of our state or national parks offers another opportunity for out of door living. For this purpose, Uncle Sam has set aside nearly 180 million acres, usually in sites of natural beauty, and the majority of parks have camping and picnic facilities; many have lodges. Details are covered in the booklet, National Forest Vacations, which can be obtained by sending 25 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

Several years ago, while visiting Yosemite and Yellowstone, I was impressed by the number of campers, largely families. They cooked their meals and slept in tents. Through experience, these nature lovers learned what to wear and how to avoid minor inconveniences and in many ways had more fun than the guests at the lodges.

But I was even more impressed with the fact that these men, women and children had learned to live out of doors in comfort and safety. They will never be lost should a catastrophe occur as a result of war, wind, or rain. In this respect,

Thomas A Edison was asked the secret of his success. "Two things that had nothing to do with my knack for inventing things had a lot to do with it," he replied candidly. "One was good luck. I'm glad there was no such thing as the eight hour day when I was a young man. I won't say it isn't a boon to others—but this country wouldn't be where it is today if the young men of 50 years ago had been afraid they might earn more than they were paid for!"

A hopeful poet, used to rejection slips, received one from a Boston publisher that followed a new line. "Your poems," it read, "are cer-

Auto "Life Belts"— New Lease On Living

In line with the current trend of automobile manufacturers to meet the increasing demand by car buyers for more safety equipment on automobiles is the announcement by one of the big three auto makers that safety belts can now be had as optional equipment on any of its models.

Earle S. MacPherson, vice president in charge of engineering of the Ford Motor Company, made the announcement that his company is now making the belts to be installed at extra cost for any buyer of Ford automobiles and trucks. The factory-suggested price for the seat belts is $11.95 plus an installation cost of about $2.

It is indeed a lamentable state of affairs when the people of a civilized nation must begin to protect themselves against one another in the hazards of everyday life, but this is only the beginning. As the years pass automobiles will become still more plentiful, highways more congested and dangers more prevalent. Safety equipment will become more and more a necessary accessory to any automobile. Even before the safety belt has been widely accepted safety experts are talking about crash helmets and all-foam-rubber interiors for automobiles.

As far as the safety belt is concerned, if widely accepted by the motoring public it will undoubtedly save many lives. Full-scale car crash tests and other experiments by many different concerns have demonstrated conclusively that when a car occupant is held fast to his seat in a crash he is subject to much less severe injuries.

Another danger eliminated by the seat belt is that of being tossed from the car. The Ford engineer pointed out, "There is less chance of injury when the motorist . . . is kept within the protective enclosure of the vehicle." Deploable as the need for the belt is, the wise motorist will accept it as a necessary evil, for it quite conceivably could give many people a new lease on life.

Conflict Of Interest

The case of Harold Talbott, secretary of the Air Force, raises the issue of conflict of interest. If the administration is to recruit men of talent to manage the various departments of government, the area for recruitment is likely to be limited to men who have proved their abilities and capacities in some phases of private business, except in such fields where scientific and academic disciplines are desired.

The man who succeeds in management in private business is likely to own shares of stock in various companies, to have some money in the bank, to own a home, to be engaged in partnerships, or to be the proprietor of a business. It is now required of such men that they divest themselves of some of these interests when there is a possibility, immediate or remote, of a conflict between their private affairs and their position in government. The sacrifice is so great that few are willing to make it.

The critic of the successful man asks: "How much money does a man need?" The only one who can answer that question is the man who is being asked to give up what it has taken him a life-time to accumulate. If he does not choose to make the sacrifice, the government has to do without his services. The question then is: Does the government require his particular type of talent?

The law prevents the administration from doing what private business can do. For instance, President Eisenhower cannot go to a competent manager, say like Charles Wilson or Harold Talbott, and say to him: "On what terms will you manage a department of government?" The law limits the salaries of officials; it takes into consideration no obvious facts, such as fixed commitments for rent, insurance, and other contracts; it does not ask what pension arrangements are to be sacrificed. It only says, "This is the job; this is the pay."

Some men like honor and power and take these jobs. Some believe that when the government calls, they should answer. Some men find very quickly that they cannot make ends meet, what with the necessity for two homes and the enormous additional expense of public life.

In the Eisenhower administration there has been an extraordinary turnover on the second level because men have been unable to continue to work for the government as much as they should like to. This is a matter for personal decision and no other person can sit in judgment of a man's requirements.

Government operations have become so complex that expert managers are essential in a number of positions. For instance, Harold Talbott's job is one that demands proved managerial skill and a great knowledge of manufacturing processes. Mischa The Poet And Ivan Ivanovic The Farmer

The conversation started, of course, with an offer of a vodka carafe from one side of the table to the other. And then, inevitably, there came the litany.

Litany Repeated

"Why do you build air bases around our country?" "Why do you demand that our young editors should be fingerprinted before they can go to America? Fingerprinting is uncultivated and for criminals." "Have you read the famous book by Elliott Roosevelt, son of your great President?" "Why have you been so cruel to the great comedian Charlie Chaplin?" and so on.

If I had just arrived in Russia, I might have thought Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic were "plants," asking carefully prepared questions. But by this time I know that every Russian—quite literally every Russian—repeats the same litany almost in the same words whenever he has the chance to talk face to face with that strange beast, an American.

The ideological curtain between Mischa, Ivan and myself was thicker and more opaque than any mere iron curtain. So, as always in conversations with Russians, our talk reached a total impasse. Then suddenly, as also often happens in conversations with Russians, Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic forgot about political problems and stopped being phonograph records, and became Russians.

Mischa, the poet, had wild curly hair and cool black eyes of burning intensity. Ivan Ivanovic had the very high cheek bones and the inflammable soul of the true Slav. Neither was of a reserved nature. Ivan Warm's Up

After the political conversation and the second carafe of vodka had simultaneously ended, Mischa fixed me with his burning eyes and implacably demanded every detail of my personal life, starting with my income. I seemed to pass this test.

"You have the open face of a simple man," Mischa announced, settling back comfortably with the third carafe. (At least that was the way Victor translated it. Would "simpleton" have been closer?)

Then Ivan Ivanovic, the collective farmer, took over. His Slavic soul was beginning by this time to warm up perceptibly, and from time to time he would beat his breast.

"I like you," he said, "because you wear the simple clothes of a worker." This rather distressed me, since I was wearing an expensive suit which I had always considered rather elegant. But I concealed the wound, as the evening took on a Slavic glow of undying amity, and Ivan Ivanovic began to beat his breast at ever more frequent intervals.

As the evening wore on, poor Victor began to lose track, since both Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic talked very loudly and continually at the same time. But I remember that half-way through the evening Ivan offered to take me to his Kolchoz, or collective farm, to live there as long as I liked with his beloved mother and three young orphan daughters. The offer interested me but the deal fell through when it turned out that his Kolchoz was some incredible distance away, across the limitless steppes.

By the end of the evening, Ivan Ivanovic and I, at his suggestion, were making arrangements to finance my three sons to his three daughters, while Mischa acted as Ivan's intermediary in the matter of terms. No doubt this deal will fall through too, as the one about the Kolchoz did. No doubt we shall never meet again.

At the moment, this prospect saddens me considerably. (Is this a sudden outcropping of the Slavic soul, or only that fourth, unwise carafe?) At any rate, I liked Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic very much indeed and I think they at least found me interesting, as a sort of circus curiosity. It's too bad that there was that curtain between us.

He also runs Resort Airlines of Delaware, which in turn owns 80 percent of Resort Airlines of North Carolina. This airline has always specialized in "package touring," or charter flights to and from vacation areas.

Suddenly and mysteriously Resort Airlines got into the domestic freight business in 1954—with some help from Talbott. This was a year after Talbott had introduced Davidson to his partner, Mulligan, and Davidson had promised to "be of some assistance" to Mulligan.

Planes To A Friend
Resort Airlines was low bidder

Two months later and despite his flat no, Talbott made two C-54's available to Davidson's airline in April 1955. The lawyers came up with a fancy word to get around Air Force policy. Technically the two C-54's were not leased, but were "bailed" to Resort Airlines—though it adds up to the same thing.

While putting across the C-54 deal, Davidson called Talbott on the phone and later sent an assistant, Robert C. Perry, over to Talbott's office. Talbott personally escorted Perry around the office, introducing him to associates, and making generous hints that Perry was a "very good friend" and "we" should take care of any problems he may have.

Despite all this, Talbott had the nerve to testify under oath that he didn't know much about Clinton Davidson, the man he helped so generously.

This might seem like a simple thing to do since the Air Force is overblessed with C-46's and ordinarily it doesn't take much pull to get C-46's from the Air Force.

However, the Air Force's leasing policy has been inconsistent, and at the time Davidson wangled the six C-46's it happened to be against Air Force policy to lease these planes to private airlines. Hurriedly, however, the policy was changed. And just to make the record look good, the Air Force also leased one C-46 apiece to two other small airlines.

More Contracts
On top of this, on January 1, 1955, Resort obtained a so-called log-air contract from the Air Force to carry jet engines between Air Force installations. In February, incidentally, one of Resort's planes crashed at Hill Air Force Base, Ogden, Utah.

Meanwhile Talbott's friend Davidson began angling to get a couple of large C-54's from the Air Force. These are really hard to get. For 18 months the Air Force has been sufficiently short of C-54's that it has refused to lease any to private airlines and Talbott had made this plain at a House appropriations hearing on February 9, 1955.

In answer to a question as to whether the Air Force planned to turn over more transport planes over to commercial operators, he replied: "Yes, I think we can. Not many. It depends on what they want. If they want the C-54's, no."

Crime, Accidents Down

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — It is too bad that the newspapers and broadcasters feel obliged to present so much bad news — about crime, foreign complications, and even auto accidents. Every impartial statistician must be an optimist, to ferret out the facts.

Consider Population Growth
It is true that these three unfortunate things are on the increase, and churches and schools are getting the blame for it. But when crime and accidents are reduced to a per capita basis, the figures are not so bad. Our population is growing so fast that in reality there has been a decrease in crime and accidents when adjusted to the population growth.

Just think, since Hoover was in the White House the net population of the United States has increased over 40,000,000! This is almost equivalent to the entire population of Great Britain. In other words, if, say, the total population of Great Britain had been dumped into the United States in the last 25 years, would we not expect to have even more crime and trouble than we have today?

Automobile Nuisance
I admit that parking problems are terrible. Unless our city fathers remedy these very soon, our merchants will suffer. When their sales decrease, manufacturers cannot sell as many goods and unemployment increases. But — considering the number of automobiles, it is remarkable that we can find any place to park our cars!

Yet, should we blame the automobiles or the ignorance and shortsightedness of our municipal governments? What would any city do today without the automobile business? Close up the dealers, garages, gas stations, and repair shops, and what would we have left? A few blacksmiths would be shoeing horses and there would be dealers in hay and oats—but the life of our cities would be gone. However, we should have both the auto industry and sufficient free parking.

Bounties Of Nature
We not only have wonderful crops, but we have a billion bushels of grain in storage. In addition we have tons of eggs, butter, and other products in storage. No country in the world begins to have our blessings. This applies even to the wealth of the sea and the trees of the forests. Each week as I read a large Sunday paper I regret the acres of splendid woodland which were destroyed to give me the newspaper. Yet, I am assured that the new growth exceeds the destruction.

When I learn of the great rivers which have not yet been harnessed, of the supplies of coal and oil which will last for centuries, and of other God-given natural resources, I am both humble and thankful. And we are just now learning about the power of uranium which may be found anywhere and a pound of which may do the work of 2½ million pounds of coal. It seems wicked for any of us to complain about anything. We perhaps are wasting precious time even bothering to look at stock market quotations or concerning ourselves about investigations. Speaking of "time," this is the only thing of which there is no surplus. Our time is the one thing which we cannot replace when it is wasted.

Freedom From War
Of all our blessings, perhaps the greatest is our freedom from war — and the possibility that world wars may be at an end. Upon the highest military authority, I forecast that the hydrogen bomb may be a blessing in disguise. At any rate, we know that the draft calls are being reduced, and the orders for much military equipment are being canceled.

I grant that it makes some people pessimistic to read the newspapers, but the very fact that the newspapers publish no more about crime and accidents proves that the bad news is becoming proportionately less. Whenever I get pessimistic, which is very seldom, I read the history of England or of some other country. This shows that the world is getting better fast and that my job is to keep up with it. If you have any difficulty being optimistic, read each day one of the Psalms of David. There are 150 of these, so they will keep you busy for five months. They will be the best pills you can take.

There are 45 different types of mosquitoes, we read. That's overdoing it — just one type would be too many.

Three New York University doctors say everybody should take more exercise. O.K., medics, we believe you — but can't we put this off until, say, a little cooler weather?

South America is suffering from a severe cold wave" — news item. What do they mean "suffering"?

To the limits of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Baering Down on The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

KIEV
Political conversation with Russians is like a meaningless litany, repeated over and over again. Non-political conversation with Russians can be interesting or funny or sad, or—and this is by far the most likely—just very Russian indeed.

Take, for example, the long talk I had last night with Mischa, the poet, and Ivan Ivanovic, the collective farmer. (Cross my heart, those were their real names.) The intelligent Intourist reporter Victor, and I were having a meal in a restaurant overlooking the handsome harbor here, when Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic took the two empty places at our table, after politely asking permission.

The conversation started, of course, with an offer of a vodka carafe from one side of the table to the other. And then, inevitably, there came the litany.

Litany Repeated

"Why do you build air bases around our country?" "Why do you demand that our young editors should be fingerprinted before they can go to America? Fingerprinting is uncultivated and for criminals." "Have you read the famous book by Elliott Roosevelt, son of your great President?" "Why have you been so cruel to the great comedian Charlie Chaplin?" and so on.

If I had just arrived in Russia, I might have thought Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic were "plants," asking carefully prepared questions. But by this time I know that every Russian—quite literally every Russian—repeats the same litany almost in the same words whenever he has the chance to talk face to face with that strange beast, an American.

The entire population of this country cannot possibly consist of intelligence agents, playing an elaborate game on all foreigners. Alas, the plain fact is that this state needs no plants. On all matters, from American air bases to Elliott Roosevelt's nonsensical book, Russians think alike because they have no opportunity to learn to think otherwise. Any serious attempt to explain such matters as the air bases is met with an infuriating, smug obtuseness, and references to such events as the Berlin blockade or the Korean aggression are greeted with blank incredulity.

The ideological curtain between Mischa, Ivan and myself was thicker and more opaque than any mere iron curtain. So, as always in conversations with Russians, our talk reached a total impasse. Then suddenly, as also often happens in conversations with Russians, Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic forgot about political problems and stopped being phonograph records, and became Russians.

Mischa, the poet, had wild curly hair and cool black eyes of burning intensity. Ivan Ivanovic had the very high cheek bones and the inflammable soul of the true Slav. Neither was of a reserved nature. Ivan Warm's Up

After the political conversation and the second carafe of vodka had simultaneously ended, Mischa fixed me with his burning eyes and implacably demanded every detail of my personal life, starting with my income. I seemed to pass this test.

"You have the open face of a simple man," Mischa announced, settling back comfortably with the third carafe. (At least that was the way Victor translated it. Would "simpleton" have been closer?)

Then Ivan Ivanovic, the collective farmer, took over. His Slavic soul was beginning by this time to warm up perceptibly, and from time to time he would beat his breast.

"I like you," he said, "because you wear the simple clothes of a worker." This rather distressed me, since I was wearing an expensive suit which I had always considered rather elegant. But I concealed the wound, as the evening took on a Slavic glow of undying amity, and Ivan Ivanovic began to beat his breast at ever more frequent intervals.

As the evening wore on, poor Victor began to lose track, since both Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic talked very loudly and continually at the same time. But I remember that half-way through the evening Ivan offered to take me to his Kolchoz, or collective farm, to live there as long as I liked with his beloved mother and three young orphan daughters. The offer interested me but the deal fell through when it turned out that his Kolchoz was some incredible distance away, across the limitless steppes.

By the end of the evening, Ivan Ivanovic and I, at his suggestion, were making arrangements to finance my three sons to his three daughters, while Mischa acted as Ivan's intermediary in the matter of terms. No doubt this deal will fall through too, as the one about the Kolchoz did. No doubt we shall never meet again.

At the moment, this prospect saddens me considerably. (Is this a sudden outcropping of the Slavic soul, or only that fourth, unwise carafe?) At any rate, I liked Mischa and Ivan Ivanovic very much indeed and I think they at least found me interesting, as a sort of circus curiosity. It's too bad that there was that curtain between us.

A Novel Idea, But Bucolic Life Has Advantages

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

A farm Vacation would be a new experience for many city dwellers. This novel idea, which is gaining momentum, was originated by William Wolfe, a resort hotel representative. It is a mutual affair; farmers earn a few dollars from their urban paying guests and the city bred get a healthful, restful, inexpensive vacation.

A booklet on this organization which now has 195 members, can be obtained by sending 25 cents to Farm Vacations and Holidays, Inc., 500 Fifth Avenue, New York. The information will be of more value for next year as reservations must be made months in advance and in addition, most of us have completed our vacation plans.

The farms range from country estates to the garden variety most of us are acquainted with. One guest wrote of her experience riding horses and tractors and helping to gather eggs, churn butter, milk cows, feed livestock, and pick blackberries. But these chores are voluntary and represent only a small part of the farm holiday. There is plenty of leisure for reading, resting, and exploring the countryside. Nearby golf courses and swimming and fishing facilities usually are available as well as auctions, square dances, summer stock shows, and country fairs. But plush service and conveniences or planned entertainment need not be expected. The farmer and his family must continue their routine work and guests are a secondary consideration.

A vacation in one of our state or national parks offers another opportunity for out of door living. For this purpose, Uncle Sam has set aside nearly 180 million acres, usually in sites of natural beauty, and the majority of parks have camping and picnic facilities; many have lodges. Details are covered in the booklet, National Forest Vacations, which can be obtained by sending 25 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C.

Several years ago, while visiting Yosemite and Yellowstone, I was impressed by the number of campers, largely families. They cooked their meals and slept in tents. Through experience, these nature lovers learned what to wear and how to avoid minor inconveniences and in many ways had more fun than the guests at the lodges.

But I was even more impressed with the fact that these men, women and children had learned to live out of doors in comfort and safety. They will never be lost should a catastrophe occur as a result of war, wind, or rain. In this respect,

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Thomas A Edison was asked the secret of his success. "Two things that had nothing to do with my knack for inventing things had a lot to do with it," he replied candidly. "One was good luck. The other was that nobody ever was able to convince me that it was unfair to my fellow workers to put forth my best efforts in my work. I'm glad there was no such thing as the eight hour day when I was a young man. I won't say it isn't a boon to others—but this country wouldn't be where it is today if the young men of 50 years ago had been afraid they might earn more than they were paid for!"

A hopeful poet, used to rejection slips, received one from a Boston publisher that followed a new line. "Your poems," it read, "are cer-

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John William Woods, "killed in action" in France, August 1, 1944.

Beyond the bright and starry realms,
Our loved one is waiting there.
Though death, may part, it cannot break
The love that we all share.

And knowing this, we can go on,
For a loving God, knew best.
And bending low, he gently called,
Our darling, home to rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence P. Woods
and Family

In Memoriam

In loving memory of John William Woods, "killed in action" in France, August 1, 1944.

Beyond the bright and sunny realms,
Our loved one is waiting there.
Though death, may part, it cannot
break
The love that we all share.

And knowing this, we can go on,
For a loving God, knew best,
And bending low, he gently called,
Our darling, home to rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Terence P. Woods

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Park Place Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Bruce K. Price. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Out Of Weakness: Strength

By REV. BRUCE K. PRICE

Human life has within it the element of complete despair. This despair is caused by a gap between what man is and what he knows he ought to be. We cannot escape the feeling that we were made for greatness, and at the same time we are bound to the conviction that we fall far beneath that state. And so the human situation has at the very heart of it an element of tragedy. All men are disappointed.

Mothers bemoan the fact that although they try their level best to be a good parent they fail. Fathers remark, "I'm just not up to it. I try to live a Christian life, to do what is right, but I seem never to have time to be a good husband, to think, to read, and to pray. As I try to keep abreast of my job I feel that even it is too much and I have become only a machine in the unbroken links of history."

This is what people today are saying, and feeling that they were made for better things, they feel inadequate, discontent, and ineffective; but to these people the Christian faith speaks a message of hope. It tells them that they are not alone. It reminds all of us that very few of our number are living in perfectly adjusted inner confidence. And the fact that we have ups and downs means only one thing—we are human beings. It is one of the characteristics that will not leave man, that which makes him feel inadequate.

If you will just stop to think about it, each of us is called upon to do things which we are neither wise enough nor good enough to do. No parent is wise enough or good enough to bring up a child. No doctor is wise enough or good enough to treat his patients; clergymen and lawyers—none of us has the knowledge he needs for

Frank Page Wins Ford Craft Award

Frank Milton Page Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Page Sr., 318 Estella Street, is one of more than 700 youngsters who have been selected as the nation's best young craftsmen in Ford Motor Company's ninth annual Industrial Arts Awards competition.

Page, who graduated with four awards this year from Carver High School, will receive $20 as honorable mention for a credence entered in the woodworking division.

Youths representing 35 states, the District of Columbia, and Hawaii were awarded a total of $50,000 in prizes in the nationwide program designed to encourage useful craftsmanship and outstanding work in school classes.

Declared winner of the Allegany County Senior Woodworking Competition in the spring, Page was presented with an apprentice membership in the Carpenter's Local Union 1024 at commencement exercises on June 2.

In addition to this honor, he received the citizenship award offered by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, a prize donated by the Wilson Hardware Company for excellence in industrial arts, and a prize for outstanding sportsmanship in athletics.

Page, a product of the local baseball leagues for youngsters, was an outstanding performer in the Little League and Hot Shoe League, being named to the annual all-star teams, and for two consecutive years he pitched and batted the Stallions of the Pony League to conference championships.

An all-around athlete, he also excelled as a member of Carver's 1954-55 basketball team.

A panel of 29 leading industrial educators and craft experts judged the IAA entries and selected the 712 cash award winners. Most of the entries they reviewed had been judged as the best of more than 40,000 projects entered in IAA regional competitions earlier this year.

This year's winning entries will be displayed in the Ford Rotunda in Dearborn, Mich., from September 9-28. Exhibitions of regional winners also will be held during the summer.

One Man Hurt In Hit-Run Mishap Here

A local motorist, who reportedly left the scene of an accident following a two-car crash near the Algonquin Hotel late Saturday night, later surrendered at Police Headquarters and posted $250 bond pending a hearing Wednesday on two motor vehicle violations.

W. R. Wagner, 435 Homer Street, a passenger in the car driven by Clyde Aldridge, 1315 Virginia Avenue, was treated at Memorial Hospital for cuts about the face.

City Police said the accident occurred at 11 p. m. Saturday near the Algonquin Hotel when the car driven by Aldridge reportedly hit a car driven by Ronald Eversole, RFD 6, Potomac Park.

Following the mishap, Aldridge was reported to have left the scene, traveled up Baltimore Street to Mechanic Street and then south on that street toward Wine-ow Street.

Near the Red Head Service Station, Aldridge apparently became confused, turned right and traveled down an alley, and crashed into a railroad barrier.

Trio Released In Car License Tag Probe

Three young men arrested here Friday night for investigation after an extra set of out-of-state license tags were found in their car, following a disturbance on Baltimore Street, were released from the City Jail yesterday afternoon.

However, Hubert L. Cole, of Richmond, Ind., operator of the automobile posted $6.45 bond and is charged with a motor vehicle violation.

Detective Joseph H. Stichter, who made the arrests, said two servicemen, arrested at the same time were released Saturday morning in order that they might report back to their station before their passes expired.

A check with State Police showed that the auto Cole was driving belonged to a brother, Robert W. Cole of Richmond, Ind. The Illinois tags, according to Detective Stichter, were issued to a Chicago man who sold the car to Robert Cole.

The Illinois tags were used for some time until the Indiana tags had been purchased, police said.

The group, Detective Stichter said, had been making advances to a girl on Baltimore Street while their car was halted by a stop light.

He warned them to stop it, Detective Stichter said, and when the car continued down Baltimore Street, one of the occupants of the car cursed him.

Commandeering another car, Detective Stichter halted the group and found the driver had no operator's permit and that there was no registration for the car.

The three men said they had been working in Pennsylvania and were on their way to St. Louis, Mo. for another job. They had picked up the servicemen in Frederick.

Stitcher said the Illinois tags were confiscated.

One Man Hurt In Hit-Run Mishap Here

A local motorist, who reportedly left the scene of an accident following a two-car crash near the Algonquin Hotel late Saturday night, later surrendered at Police Headquarters and posted $250 bond pending a hearing Wednesday on two motor vehicle violations.

W. R. Wagner, 435 Homer Street, a passenger in the car driven by Clyde Aldridge, 1315 Virginia Avenue, was treated at Memorial Hospital for cuts about the face.

City Police said the accident occurred at 11 p. m. Saturday near the Algonquin Hotel when the car driven by Aldridge reportedly hit a car driven by Ronald Eversole, RFD 6, Potomac Park.

Following the mishap, Aldridge was reported to have left the scene, traveled up Baltimore Street to Mechanic Street and then south on that street toward Winow Street.

Trio Released In Car License Tag Probe

Three young men arrested here Friday night for investigation after an extra set of out-of-state license tags were found in their car, following a disturbance on Baltimore Street, were released from the City Jail yesterday afternoon.

However, Hubert L. Cole, of Richmond, Ind., operator of the automobile posted $6.45 bond and is charged with a motor vehicle violation.

Detective Joseph H. Stichter, who made the arrests, said two servicemen arrested at the same time were released Saturday morning in order that they might report back to their station before their passes expired.

A check with State Police showed that the auto Cole was driving belonged to a brother, Robert W. Cole of Richmond, Ind. The Illinois tags, according to Detective Stichter, were issued to a Chicago man who sold the car to Robert Cole.

The Illinois tags were used for some time until the Indiana tags had been purchased, police said.

The group, Detective Stichter said, had been making advances to a girl on Baltimore Street while their car was halted by a stop light.

He warned them to stop it, Detective Stichter said, and when the car continued down Baltimore Street, one of the occupants of the car cursed him.

Commandeering another car, Detective Stichter halted the group and found the driver had no operator's permit and that there was no registration for the car.

The three men said they had been working in Pennsylvania and were on their way to St. Louis, Mo. for another job. They had picked up the servicemen in Frederick.

Stichter said the Illinois tags were confiscated.

Fewer Marriage Licenses Issued During July

Although July was the second busiest month this year for the issuance of marriage licenses in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, the number dropped some 38 below last July's figure of 309, which was the high for 1954.

The 271 marriage licenses issued last month brought the seven-month total for 1955 to 1,548, which is 28 or 1.8 per cent above the 1,520 sold during the corresponding months of 1954. As usual, most of those obtaining licenses came here from various cities in Pennsylvania. There were two Canadians and a number of United States citizens from rather distant points.

Month-by-month marriage license totals, with the 1954 figure listed first and the 1955 figure second in each case:

January—150 and 180; February—146 and 154; March—181 and 180; April—220 and 223; May—222 and 221; June—292 and 319; July—309 and 271.
